MATEKITA

Matekita, A.K.A. Công-Minh Pham, is a versatile pianist and keyboardist, keen on sound experimentation and multiform improvisation. He has been playing the piano since the age of 7, then trained in the classical music and jazz codes, and very soon entered the world of electronic music and its sound transgressions. He has built up strong collaborations with artists from the international scene in France and abroad: Yasmine Hamdan, Sarah Lenka, Hakim Sulaiman, Leyla Doriane, Martin Meissonnier.

His music, both subtle and unusual, mixes genres and fiddles with codes. Matekita cuts into the musicality of sound, as in a living raw material to be transformed and reinvented. In the pool of his studio, he shapes a universe between jazz, electronic music and sound experiments which he brings to the stage alongside prestigious musicians.

The album "And Then the Sun Rose in The West" will be released on 22 October 2021 on the TCHAI label, distributed by InOuïe Distribution.
